

UMDNJ-SN Mobile Healthcare Project

The New Jersey Children's Health Project

The New Jersey Children's Health Project, launched in May 2007, is a collaboration between the Children's Health Fund (CHF) and the UMDNJ-SN Mobile Healthcare Project. This innovative, collaborative outreach effort works in partnership with CHF, the clinical affiliates of UMDNJ, and community-based organizations. The Project is staffed by a team of healthcare professionals who travel to underserved neighborhoods to provide primary and preventive healthcare services to children and their families. Individuals who receive services through the Project will be treated regardless of ability to pay. The Project is expected to serve thousands of residents in its first year of operation. The aim of the Project is to break down the financial, social, and transportation barriers that prevent people from receiving proper healthcare and to fill the gap in linking people in need to available resources.

Goals of Care

At the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey the mission of the School of Nursing Mobile Healthcare Project, in partnership with the Children's Health Fund, is to extend the reach of healthcare delivery to underserved, inner city residents. Through joint collaborative practice agreements, the UMDNJ-SN advanced practice nurses work closely with physician teams, to develop cost effective care delivery strategies for patients diagnosed with acute and chronic illnesses in the community-based setting. The objectives of the Project are to: screen, identify and provide health promotion/disease management services, foster community involvement in the health assessment and referral process, and provide culturally and linguistically sensitive health promotion/disease management health education.

The Project strives to achieve the following goals of care. Children and their families will:

- receive health promotion, disease management care and treatment to assist in the achievement of optimum levels of wellness
- receive counseling and guidance in locating and utilizing community-based resources as the need arises
- be an integral component of the healthcare team in the development and implementation of mutually agreed upon care modalities
- receive healthcare instruction using culturally and linguistically sensitive teaching aids to enhance understanding of disease processes and health promotion
- receive care that is research-based and follows nationally standardized clinical guidelines
